Bless This Child Designs Offers Interactive Children's Quilt Pattern

Bless This Child Designs has created a unique pattern for an interactive children's quilt. Titled "Old MacDonald," the quilt pattern depicts a barnyard scene complete with flaps that can be opened. Under the flaps, various quilted farm animals are shown. This unique pattern is one that can help a seamstress create a beautiful quilt that can not only be snuggled, but can also be enjoyed by a child and parent in other ways. By opening the flaps on the quilt, the child can enjoy "playing" with the quilt and finding the hidden surprises. The quilt presents a unique opportunity for parent and child to peek at the animals under the flaps for fun and learning.

Shannon Klahr, owner of Bless This Child Designs, has designed quilts such as "Old MacDonald" not only to be cherished for generations, but also to allow her to do good for others. Not only does the pattern go out with a prayer for each child, but Klahr donates a portion of her profits to charitable causes such as Habitat for Humanity and Heifer International. She also donates to various environmental causes and uses recycled papers when making her patterns.

With this beautiful quilt pattern, Bless This Child Designs has created the opportunity for many individuals to sew a piece of art that can be treasured for generations. The unique design of "Old MacDonald" makes the interactive quilt not only beautiful, but also very special and enjoyable. When completed, "Old MacDonald" makes a wonderful gift for a son, daughter, grandchild, nephew or niece, and can be a beautiful gift to welcome the birth of the baby. Consumers will find it difficult to resist the gorgeous, classic "Old MacDonald Had a Farm" appeal for a child's quilt, with the added bonus of finding all of the animals hiding within the barn. These interactive pieces allow parents an opportunity to creatively teach their children about music, counting, animal sounds and words.

Other quilt patterns are planned for release in 2008, and "Old MacDonald" is currently available exclusively at Cotton Club, 5503 County Highway K, Chippewa Falls, WI 54729. The new and beautiful designs planned for the coming year are sure to be treasured by friends and family as well.
